Community Awareness STATISTICS

Suicide affects all ages. It is the second leading cause of death for people ages 10-34, the fourth leading cause among people ages 34-54, and the fifth leading cause among people ages 45-54

In the United States, women are more likely to attempt suicide, but men are more likely to die by it.

Suicide is the 10th leading cause of death in the United States. It was responsible for more than 47,500 deaths in 2019, which is about one death every 11 minutes.

People can become suicidal when they feel overwhelmed by life's challenges. They lack hope for the future, and they see suicide as the only solution. It's sort of a tunnel vision where other options seem useless. Having a family history of suicide or impulsive behavior is also believed to increase risk of suicidality.

Other risk factors can include:

- History of substance abuse
- Access to firearms
- Difficult life events
- Isolation from others
- History of mental illness
- History of physical or sexual abuse
- Having a terminal or chronic illness
- Past suicide attempts

Words suicidal people use

Everyone would be better off without me.

I should go hang myself. No one would care anyway.

I'm tired of living. I don't want to do it

Dying would be better.

I hate myself.

I should kill myself.

No one will miss me if I was gone.

I should jump off a bridge.

BE MINDFUL

Not every suicidal person says words or expresses they're thinking about killing themselves. Sometimes, you will see marks on their body such as cut marks on their wrists. Sometimes, people start giving away their belongings.

Look for change in behavior.

MYTH:
Suicide only affects people with an existing mental health condition.

Founder's Message

Misty E. Rivera

In 2002, I lost my first husband to suicide. It took me 18 years before I could speak about Jason's death. Today, I am dedicating myself to educating the community about suicide prevention—and hopefully save lives.

Hope is here!
